TRIP AND FALL ON RAISED SIDEWALK

Newark, NJ - Plaintiff tripped and fell on a raised sidewalk adjacent to a commercial property in downtown Newark, New Jersey and retained Corradino & Papa, LLC to represent her injuries. Following the accident, Plaintiff was transported to the emergency room via emergency medical service wherein she was treated and released with a closed comminuted three-part fracture of her proximal humerus. Plaintiff followed up with the on-call orthopedist and underwent an open reduction internal fixation of her humerus. As a result of the surgical incision, Plaintiff sustained scarring on her right upper arm. Plaintiff also asserted a claim for her neck injuries in which she underwent physical therapy and an epidural steroid injection.

The case resulted in significant litigation, depositions, and motion practice. The parties submitted to a Mediation which Plaintiff left due to no meaningful offer being tendered.

Plaintiff relied on the opinions of her liability expert to establish the Defendant was on notice of the raised sidewalk and failed to remediate the condition which in turn caused the seventy (70) year old Plaintiff to trip and fall.

Plaintiff sought non-economic damages for suffering, pain, loss of enjoyment of life, disability, and impairment and promptly proceeded with litigating this matter in an effort to receive compensation for her injuries in a timely fashion.

Following arbitration, the matter was scheduled for its second trial listing. On the day before trial testimony was scheduled to commence, Plaintiff's attorney Angelo S. Catanzariti of Corradino & Papa, LLC was able to secure a settlement in the amount of $500,000.00 for the Plaintiff. ■

rebuilding your credit

FOLLOWING CHAPTER 7 BANKRUPTCY

Following Chapter 7 bankruptcy, your next challenge is rebuilding your credit. Look over your credit reports from the major credit-reporting bureaus: Experian, Equifax, and TransUnion. You are entitled to one free report every 12 months from each. A Chapter 7 bankruptcy will be on your credit report for 10 years.

A good chunk of your credit-report negatives should have been removed or changed to reflect your new financial status. If you dispute anything, promptly contact the credit-reporting bureaus. Or, hire a reputable credit-repair company to do it for you.

Next, apply for a secured credit card or secured loan to establish a history of reliably paying back loans. A credit card or loan is "secured" when you provide your own money as collateral. To receive the credit card, you'll place a deposit that matches the card's credit limit. For a loan, you'll place an amount of money equal to the size of the loan in a special account that is inaccessible to you until you pay off the loan.

Make sure to pay monthly loan payments on time. Credit-card purchases should never total more than 30 percent of your credit limit. Again, make timely payments ... ideally in full.

If you follow this game plan, offers of credit frequently will be extended to you within months after the close of bankruptcy. In a creditor's eyes, you are no longer swimming in debt, you will likely spend more cautiously, and you are ineligible to file for bankruptcy again for another eight years. Bankruptcy may temporarily challenge your credit situation, but it need not ruin it. ■
